The Greenwarden

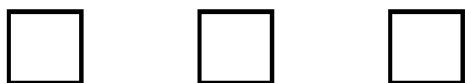

The Greenwarden is a mystical guardian born from the course's ancient spirits, tasked with protecting the sacred green. Once a humble groundskeeper, he now stands as a fierce protector of the pin. With unwavering dedication, he challenges any golfer who dares approach, testing their precision with every chip. Only the most skilled can overcome his watchful gaze and claim victory.

"Halt! You stand before the Greenwarden, guardian of these hallowed greens. I have watched over this land for ages, and I will not allow sloppy chips to trespass beyond my watchful gaze. Your touch must be precise, your loft true—only those with the sharpest skills shall earn passage. But be warned... many have tried, and their balls now rest in the sand, the rough, and the depths of the water beyond. Show me your finest stroke, or turn back now!"

How to defeat The Greenwarden - Get up and down 3 times

The Bunker Beast

Once a promising golfer, Clyde "The Sandman" Burrows was cursed after a disastrous tournament where he failed to escape a bunker, taking countless strokes until the sand swallowed him whole. Now transformed into The Bunker Beast, he haunts the course's deepest traps, ensuring no golfer escapes without struggle.

How to defeat the Bunker Beast - Get up and down from a greenside bunker

Water Hazard Wizard

Lurking just beyond the fairways, the Water Hazard Wizard is a mystical, mischievous force who thrives on golfers' fears of losing their ball to the depths. Cloaked in a swirling mist of morning dew and adorned with a robe shimmering like rippling water, this enigmatic sorcerer controls the lakes, ponds, and streams of the course. With a flick of their enchanted staff, crafted from a legendary sunken driver, they summon rogue gusts of wind, create deceptive reflections on the water's surface, and even whisper cursed echoes to make golfers second-guess their club choice.

Defeating the Water Hazard Wizard requires patience, precision, and a strong mental game. Those who falter will watch helplessly as their balls plop into the abyss, claimed by the aquatic overlord as part of their ever-growing collection.

How to defeat the Water Hazard Wizard - Go three rounds without losing a ball in the water

Fairway Phantom

The Fairway Phantom is a spectral enigma that haunts the stretches of the golf course, punishing those who take their shots for granted. Cloaked in a misty aura and gliding just above the grass, they whisper eerie warnings about the fate of lost balls, daring golfers to defy them. Only those who carefully track every shot and respect the game's unpredictability can escape the Phantom's curse.

Dragon of Duffington

The Dragon of Duffington is a fearsome beast that thrives on mishits, skulled chips, and soul-crushing chunks. Slumbering beneath the fairways, it awakens with a fiery growl every time a golfer hesitates or loses confidence in their swing. Each duffed shot fuels its power, leaving behind scorched divots and smouldering frustration. Legends say the only way to tame the Dragon is with unwavering focus and a smooth, committed strike. Those who fear the duff will find themselves trapped in its cycle—only the bold can break free from its grasp.

How to defeat the Dragon of Duffington - Go two rounds without duffing or skulling a shot

The Puttergeist

The Puttergeist haunts the greens of every course, feeding on hesitation and second-guessing. Once a cursed caddie with an uncanny ability to read putts, their spirit now lurks beneath the surface of the turf, twisting lines and softening strokes. Golfers who take too long to commit to a putt often feel a chill in the air and see their ball lip out or stop inches short. The only way to banish the Puttergeist is with confident strokes, a steady hand, and unwavering trust in the read.

How to defeat the Puttergeist - Have a round with no more than a single 3-putt
